The Summerhouse

With its vaulted ceiling, exposed beams and rustic hearth with wood burner-style fire, this traditional Wessex lodge would look as good on the ski slopes of the Alps as it does in the depths of the Devon countryside. On entering through large French doors, the spacious interior immediately evokes a feeling of warmth and welcome. The new interior design blends a rich colour palette and the painted vaulted V groove ceiling and large windows accentuate the feeling of space in the lounge and dining areas.

The tastefully designed kitchen provides plenty of cupboard space in addition to accommodating the full complement of kitchen appliances. The elegant, light and inviting king-size master bedroom continues the theme of space and tranquility. In the two bedroom layout, the master bedroom benefits from his and hers wardrobes and an en-suite with large walk-in shower.

Features include

- Log lap cladding as standard, alternatively upgrade to cladding of your choice
- 600mm soffit overhang with bulkhead lights
- Tall, wide windows to dining area on front elevation to complement the French doors
- Painted vaulted V groove board ceiling to living space and kitchen with exposed centre beam

- Upgraded bathroom fittings and sanitary ware

The promise of long carefree days in the new Summerhouse beckons. The living areas boast a refreshing, crisp interior accentuated by the vaulted ceiling and dramatic internal wooden beams. The Summerhouse has been carefully designed with a flowing open plan living area with a compact but light, airy and fully equipped modern kitchen. The kitchen is cleverly separated from the lounge by an elevated bistro style dining table and feature wall. The creative use of expansive glazing and French doors to the kitchen and dining area create a strong alfresco feel as soon as the sun comes out.
